FEMINE FRIPPERIES.

Wide galloons are worn.

Fringes are very fashionable.

Shirred sleeves are again worn.

Rosary rings are coming in vogue.

Violets are the flowers of the moment.

Polonaises will still be worn in the Spring.

Gemmel rings are a revival of an old fashion.

The buttonhole bouquet of the season is of violets.

Nail-head galloons are among the new dress trimmings.

Evening gloves are very long, reaching to the elbow, and sometimes above it.

The newest polonaises are so long as to show only a mere line of the lower skirt.

Brocaded and basket-woven galloons will be extensively used for Spring trimmings.

The short sleeves of evening dresses are frequently made entirely of puffs of lace.

The very low corsages of ball and evening toilets are made higher by lace puffs and pleatings.

Every other lady you meet on Broadway wears a bunch of violets at the crossing of her bonnet and scarf.

Small shawls to match the color of the dress, when the latter is of plain cashmere, will be the favorite Spring wrap.

Mittens for evening wear are made very long, and trimmed with lace at the top, which falls gracefully around the elbow.

Frank Leslie's Ladies' Journal predicts that there will be a run on yellow from deep orange red to the palest shade of jaune.

The bayaleuse, or dress sweeper, is a bounce of muslin and imitation lace basted on the under side of the train to support the same.

In Luck.—Since Florida has ceased to be an exciting factor in the Presidential complications, she has had a streak of luck that brings joy to her people. A party of English and German capitalists have purchased three million acres of her State lands, which they intend to colonize and cultivate. It is said the money she received for these lands will cancel her debt and leave a balance in her treasury. Then there is the accession she will receive to her population and revenues of still greater prospective value.

The following is a genuine copy of a bill made out by the hostler of an inn in a village in Dorsetshire, England: "Aforthoe [pay for the horse], 8d.; chinosanah [cleaning horse and chaise], 4d.; brininonimogin [bringing him home again], 6d.—total, 1s 1d."

Money is plentiful at all the San Francisco banks, and private capitalists are earnest in soliciting loans. Large sums on first class security can be readily obtained at eight per cent. for a term of years.

HOW TO PRESERVE HEALTH.

The first great secret of good health is good habits, and the next is regularity of habits. They are briefly summed up in the following rules:

Give yourself the necessary amount of sleep. Some men require five hours of the twenty-four; others eight. Avoid feather beds. Sleep in a garment not worn during the day; and have plenty of fresh air in your room.

Dress warmly, with woolen undershirts and drawers. Remove muffler, overcoat, overshoes, etc., when remaining any considerable length of time in a warm room. Keep your feet warm and dry. Wash them in warm water three times a week. Wear warm stockings, large boots, and overshoes when in the snow or wet. Wear a light covering on the head, keeping it always cool.

Have always a pint or quart of water in the sleeping room. In the morning, after washing, and wiping the hands and face, then wet with hands, every part of the body. Cold water will not be disagreeable when applying it with the bare hands. Wipe immediately; follow by brisk rubbing over the body. The whole operation need not take more than five minutes. The result of this wash is, the blood is brought to the surface of the skin and made to circulate evenly throughout the body. You have opened the pores of the skin, allowing impurities in the body to pass off, and have given yourself, in the operation, a good and vigorous morning exercise. Pursue this habit regularly, and you will seldom take cold.

Five minutes spent in the open air, after dressing, inflating the lungs by inhaling as full a breath as possible, and pounding the breast during the inflation will greatly enlarge the chest, strengthen the lung power, and very effectually ward off consumption.

If inclined to be dispeptic, avoid mince pie, sausage and other highly seasoned food. Beware of eating too freely of soups; better to eat food dry enough to employ the natural saliva of the mouth in moistening it. If inclined to over-eat, partake freely of rice, cracked wheat, and other articles that are easily digested.

Eat freely of ripe fruit, and avoid excessive use of meats. Eat at regular hours, and lightly near the hour of going to bed. Eat slowly. Thor oughly masticate the food. Do not wash it down with continual drinking while eating. Tell your funniest stories while at the table, and for an hour afterwards. Do not engage in severe mental labor directly after heavy eating.

Exercise, not too violent, but sufficiently to produce a gentle perspiration, should be had each day in the open air.

The condition of the mind has much to do with health. Be hopeful and joyous. To be so, avoid business entanglements that may cause perplexity and anxiety. Keep out of debt. Live within your income. Attend church. Walk, race, mix in jovial company. Do as near right as you know how. Thus conscience will always be at ease. If occasionally disappointed, remember that there is no rose without a thorn, and that the darkest clouds have a silver lining, that sunshine follows storm, and beautiful Spring follows the dreary Winter. Do your duty and leave the rest to God, who doeth all things well.—Hill's Manual.

Military Salutes.

The old salute, which consisted of the hand being brought into an horizontal position over the eyebrows, has a very old origin, dating, in fact, from the very commencement of the history of the English army. Its origin is found in the tournaments of the middle ages, and was as follows: After the Queen of Beauty was enthroned, the knights who were to take part in the sports of the day marched past the dais on which she sat, and as they passed they shielded their eyes from the rays of her beauty. Such was the very interesting origin of the old salute. The principal part of the officer's salute—kissing the hilt of the sword—dates also from the middle ages. When the crusaders were on their way to the Holy City, the knights were in the daily custom of planting their long, two-handed swords upright in the ground, thereby forming a cross, and before these they performed their morning devotions. On all military occasions they kissed the hilts of their swords in token of their devotion to the cause of the cross; and this custom was perpetuated after the crusaders were numbered among the things of the past, and when the religious origin of the salute was forgotten.

The Astors in New York have given notice to all their tenants—and they are numbered by hundreds—that after the 1st of May next a reduction of ten per cent. will be made upon their rents. This is the third reduction of a similar amount which they have made since the panic. Some landlords in this region might follow this example with honor to themselves and relief to their tenants.

OUR FUTURE POLITICIANS.

There is a great deal which should be turned to profitable account in the lecture delivered by Prof. Kellogg before the University students of California a few days ago. The need of scholarly men in politics, the necessity of a college for political training, are shown up in a proper light, and his idea of the requisites of a good politician time will amply attest correct. We are hardly content with being able to present only a synopsis of such a practical and interesting topic, but it is all we find reported in the Bulletin, from which we copy:

Introductory the lecturer remarked that it was a practical and interesting topic, since many University students contemplated entering the political arena, and others would be drawn into it who do not now intend entering it. We have many instances of this; many of our Supreme Court Judges have been drawn into politics. We have a recent example in the election of Judge Davis, of Illinois, to the Senate of the United States. The lecturer continued: Politics is no mean profession. It has been disparaged and called a filthy pool, but politics in itself is a noble profession. This can easily be maintained from the meaning of the word. Politics consists of the science and art of government.

President Woolsey of Harvard, and many other University Presidents, urge scholarly men to enter political life, and Presidents White of Cornell and Seelye of Amherst have already entered to a great degree. Men in politics have disgraced themselves, but they can not disgrace an intrinsically great and good profession. The question naturally arises, what ought the politician to be? I answer, he must be a man of special training. The merchant must understand the principles of commerce and trade in order to be proficient in his business; the farmer must have a good knowledge of the cultivation of the soil, or he can't be a good farmer; and so it is in every profession—a man must be proficient in his calling. Now, shall the politician be exempted from this? Shall he deal with affairs of which he knows nothing? There have been some shrewd men—"hot-house" politicians they are called—who have risen step by step, but these are manifestly unsafe guides on all questions of political economy, arbitration, and the like. As evidence of the unfitness of our politicians, look at the Electoral college, and the entanglement of our internal affairs. The history of the past is almost a blank in the minds of our politicians. They know nothing of the early systems of governmental control, of the early governments of Greece and Rome, and, therefore can know very little of comparative politics.

You must grant then, such being the case, that there is need of special political training; and I recommend the establishment of a course of politics in our Universities. But you ask, suppose I should take this training and then be an "ungathered rose"? It is no matter, every man ought to fit himself if he has any aspirations to shine in political life, or at least to be lightly useful there. Those that are unfit should stay out. A politician ought to be a man of honesty. This property is especially needful in public life. The intrigues of dishonest men have been the bane of political affairs. It is not safe for me to speak of those dishonest men who are at present in public life, but I can bribe the dead. I will mention Aaron Burr, and there are many men living to-day like Burr, only they lack his power.

But honesty is not the only requisite. Men who enter the political field should be imbued with a true and warm patriotism. Not like Benedict Arnold, who was repelled, disheartened and disgusted. The politician must not be repelled by anything, but must distinguish the cause of the country from the weakness of the people, and strive for the success of the great object in which he is enlisted. The politician must never allow himself to be drawn into any pool; he must take his place and stay there. This kind of man are needed in great political crises, men who will not fly to arms the minute their party is defeated, but who can take defeat gracefully and say, "We have met the enemy and we are theirs."

I go one step further and say that a politician should be a man of wide and true philanthropy, and of high sense of justice to all. The Ishmaelite period is going out of vogue; all literature and politics bind us together. Even Asia is thrown open to foreigners, and Japan is welcoming the world, and is "on the fence" as to whether she shall adopt European language or not. It may be said that all this is too high an ideal for a politician that it is a statesman; but a politician is a statesman in embryo, if not in reality. If this country is to stand, there must be reform. I do not believe it is going to go down; I believe the political tricksters will have a hard time, and will be conquered in the end. I like these investigating committees, and wish we had them on both sides. A tricky student will be a tricky politician. I caution you who are class politicians not to enter political life. If you are not drawn to the right ideal for its own sake, if you care not for integrity or honor, have some regard for the probabilities that you will not succeed. But if you will be tricksters in the class and examination room, and if in society you show this same tendency, if you are dogs in the manger, if you are such as these, then we warn you how you lay your hands on the political wheel. You may rise and win some sort of fame, but it will only be to drag down our noble country. Do not dare to lay your hands upon the altar of public welfare. Let California work out her own career. Let the nation alone. In the name of political safety let politics alone. But if you are good men, go; the nation wants you; we all want you. Ascend the hill of the Lord and stand on its holy summit.

TWENTY-TWO TO SIX.

A Jury Decides that Hayes is President and a Backer of Tilden is Bullied.

Charley Lovich is an ardent Republican, and during the excitement following the presidential election made several wagers that Hayes would succeed Grant as Chief Executive of the Nation. Baron Rothschild believed explicitly that Tilden would step into the shoes of the retiring Chief Magistrate, and when Charley offered to bet $22 to $6 that Hayes would be the next President the temptation could not be resisted and Rothschild and two of his friends clubbed together and made up the purse, and the wager was taken. After the inauguration, Charley claimed his coin, but Albert Rosenthal, the stakeholder, and one of the trio backing Samuel J. Tilden, refused to give up the money, claiming the bet was made in New York, each man was entitled to receive back his own money. A previous bet had been made by Lovich and Rothschild, and the stakeholder had given the money to the backer of Hayes. It turned out that Rothschild was only acting as the agent of Rosenthal, and when that party wanted to settle the other bet, he insisted on retaining ten dollars, the amount he lost by the stakeholder, giving up the money of Rothschild's wager. Lovich was not satisfied, and immediately demanded an Electoral Commission and would not be counted out. He commenced suit against Rosenthal in the Justice's Court, and the case was yesterday decided. If M. Beate, a Democratic lawyer, was engaged by Lovich, and the backer of Tilden sought the services of attorney C. G. Hubbard, the defeated Republican candidate for State Senator. A returning board of four jurors were sworn in to examine into the case, which then proceeded and caused much merriment. The returns all in, the jury gave as its unanimous verdict that Lovich was entitled to the $22 and costs. A judgment was so rendered and the backer of Tilden was bullied. Who will now doubt that Hayes was elected President?—Evening Sentinel of the 15th.

MINING NOTES.

The mills of the Northern Belle mine crushed 750 tons of ore last week, yielding $20,800. A shipment of $8,140 was made on the 14th. The twenty second consecutive monthly dividend of $50,000 was paid on the 15th, making $1,100,000 disbursed to stockholders in less than two years; and still the bonanza holds out.

In using the diamond drill on the 1,700 foot level in the Gould & Curry mine, a strong flow of hot water has been tapped, which is regarded as a good indication. Fearing the water might become troublesome, the aperture was plugged until pumps can be arranged for contingencies.

The daily ore production of leading Washoe mines during the past week has been as follows: Belcher, 90 tons; California, 550 tons; Chollar, 110 tons; Consolidated Virginia, 280 tons; Justice, 400 tons; and Ophir 125 tons.

A letter from the Superintendent of the Man-field mine, written on the 12th, reports a great improvement in the ore developments. He has taken out several sacks that will go $1,000 per ton.

The Knickerbocker Mining Company have levied an assessment of 20c per share, aggregating $30,000, delinquent April 21st.

The Black Bear Quartz Mining Company have declared a dividend of 25c per share, payable on Monday.

The water in the Hale & Norcross and Savage mines is below the 1,900 foot levels.

TELEGRAPHIC MELANGE.

MOST IMPORTANT ITEMS IN YESTERDAY'S DISPATCHES.

The Administration Will Organize the Next House.

CHICAGO, March 19.—The Times Washington correspondent declares under the heading, "The South Secedes," that the Hayes party has secured enough Southern ex-Confederate votes to make themselves certain of the organization of the next House. It then explains that this effect is produced by the influence of the Railroad Ring, which has been working powerfully here, and which intends to run the Government in its own interest for the next four years; that the Administration has made such promises to the South of local self-government to be guaranteed subsidies, fat offices, railroads to be built, etc.; that the Southern members now believe it will be greatly to their interest to work with the Administration. Postmaster General Key is in constant receipt of letters from the South urging the policy of breaking away from old party lines and joining in with the new order of things. Senator Smith, of Tennessee, yesterday wrote him to that effect. Southern women, particularly, are frequent in writing such advice. The Northern Democratic leaders are becoming alarmed at the prospect, and are contemplating nominating a Southern man for Speaker of the House, and Google of Virginia is mentioned in that connection; also Hooker of Mississippi. Foster of Ohio declares that there is no possible doubt that the Administration will be able to organize the next House.

Wade Hampton's Plan.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Governor Hampton of South Carolina has given a guarantee to the President that if the troops are withdrawn no violence will occur or be allowed, but that he will proceed against Chamberlain by legal means only, and under a statute enacted by the Republicans in 1868 to enable them to put out some Democratic incumbents. This statute provides for the summary eviction of any person intruding himself into public office, by a warrant issued by a Circuit Judge. The party evicted under such a warrant is authorized by the statute to assert his claim or pretensions in the courts if he wishes, but he must give way first and at once on the presentation of the warrant, to the officer elected.

The Next House.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A Washington special says it is now definitely settled that an extra session will convene the last of May or first of June. There is great anxiety to see the roll of members prepared by Clerk Adams. He declines to make it public, but asserts that after conceding the Republicans all they claim, the Democrats will have three or four majority in the organization of the next House. There is much speculation as to whether enough Democrats will join the Administration to elect a Speaker, or whether the Southern Republicans, who are greatly offended by Hayes' Southern policy, will secede from the party.

Grant's Movements.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A Washington special says General and Mrs. Grant will leave Washington during the present week for a visit to the West, accompanied by their young son now in college. They will sail for Europe in May. They expect to be absent from this country at least two years, and Grant desires to travel as any other private citizen of the United States, with public demonstrations by the Government authorities of the countries he will visit.

A Riot in Switzerland.

BERNE, March 19.—The Internationalists made a demonstration here on the anniversary of the outbreak of the Paris Commune. The police seized the red flag which was born in the procession. The crowd resisted, and sabers and knives were used. Several Gendarmes and Internationalists were wounded.

One Million Dollars and Over.

Below we give a list of the Pacific Coast mines which have paid one million dollars and over, in dividends during the ten years past, ending December 31, 1876, to wit:

Con Virginia	$17,000,000
Belcher	14,975,000
Chollar	11,054,000
California	9,400,000
Savage	8,128,000
Chollar-Potosi	8,040,000
Raymond & Ely	3,075,000
Idaho	2,936,800
Esmeralda	2,294,000
Yellow Jacket	1,400,000
Hale & Norcross	1,246,000
Meado Valley	1,170,000
San Amador	1,097,300
Esmeralda	1,088,000
Esmeralda	1,000,000

"ONCE GOOD TURN DESERVES ANOTHER."—The above adage is most applicable to Messrs. Grey & Isaacs, dry goods merchants, Virginia street. Seeing since they have come amongst us, ladies have discovered to their joy that the prices in dry goods have fallen to one-half their original price, and still they tumble, as Grey & Isaacs are determined to still continue to lead the dry goods trade of Reno, and with that aim in view they have marked down their entire stock to enable them to clear out all their Winter goods, so now is your opportunity ladies to buy dry goods at your own price, at the same time showing your appreciation for their past acts.

Try one of E. Meyers' bit cigars and you'll be sure to get another. *

A new lot of imported cigars just received at E. Meyers' in J. E. Jones & Co.'s old bank. *

Good PLACE TO GO.—Wintermantel's hotel and restaurant, Deutches Gasthaus, Pension Fraucaise, Center street, near the depot, Reno. Also, El Dorado saloon, opposite the hotel, and to which is connected a shooting gallery, ten pin alley, billiard table and pigeon hole. Wintermantel keeps everything in apple-pie order, an customers can rely on having excellent treatment, and lots of fun. *

Drs. WAGAR & SHEETS, Mechanical and Surgical Dentists. Dental rooms east side of Virginia street with Dr. Bishop. All work pertaining to the teeth performed in a neat and satisfactory manner. The friends and patrons of either party can procure his services the same as ever. *

TONSORIAL WAR.—There is war among the barbers. Schwartz, at the International, has inaugurated it by reducing the price of hair-cutting from 50 to 25 cents, and shampooing from 50 to 25 cents. Help keep the prices down to a fair figure by patronizing Schwartz. *

A Village on the Ice.
In Saginaw Bay, Michigan, there is a village built on the ice. It has no name and no government, but the inhabitants are all industrious, and earn their own living. This village, to which a great deal of attention has lately been attracted, is built by the fishermen of the bay. The cold is so severe in that region that the bay is completely frozen over, interfering with the business of the fishers. To overcome this difficulty, they have adopted a novel and ingenious plan. They have erected shanties on the ice, and there they work and sleep. These shanties are built of strips of timber lined with thick building paper, and are at least comfortable. They are fitted with a small stove and a small bedstead, and are mounted on runners, so that they can be easily moved about. Already about three hundred buildings have been put up, and the number is fast increasing. A hotel and a saloon are among the buildings. The manner of fishing is peculiar and very successful. A hole is first cut in the ice, and a trap-door in the floor of the house covers it when not in use. The house is darkened, and the fishing begins. The fisherman seats himself upon a stool beside the hole, and lowers a line with a herring attached into the water. The end of the line is made fast to the roof. A piece of lead four inches long is forced down the herring's throat, and serves for a sinker. The fish coming around the bait, are speared by the fishermen, who are very accurate in their aim, and rarely miss a fish. The water is so clear that the bottom of the bay can be seen. After dark a lamp with a reflector is used to give light. The best fishing is about 4 o'clock in the morning and 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The catch is principally pickerel, with a few white fish and some trout. An industrious fisherman with ordinary good luck can take from eighty to one hundred pounds of fish daily. The fish sell for prices ranging from 4¢ to 7 and 8 cents a pound; and it has been calculated that the gross receipts of the season will amount to about $135,000. The people engaged in fishing are mostly residents of Bay City, Wenona, and other towns on the bay. Some are from Canada, and a few from New York.

A DUBLIN paper prints a letter addressed by an Irishman in New York to a Board of Town Commissioners in the former city, petitioning them to disband all intending immigrants from leaving Ireland for America in these times. He claims to know scores of his countrymen to be starving here at present who had never needed the necessities of life in their native land, and that trade was hopelessly stagnant, and the public confidence destroyed. The letter was appropriately produced by one of the members of the board during a discussion as to whether that body were prepared to advance the means of going to the United States to a deserving candidate for such a favor. Biased by the letter, the board refused to send the applicant to America.

COUNT VON ARMIN is reported to be dying at Nice.
